The Goddess $sẖt$ in Ancient Egypt

Mona Abou El Maati

abstract:

The goddess Sekhet was the lady of fields and marshes. She was the lady of fowling and fishing in ancient Egypt. She held a lot of titles and epithets which show her importance to the deceased and to the king.

Her name is mentioned in most of the hunting scenes which were represent on the walls of the tombs throughout the pharaonic period. The owner of the tomb held titles to show his relation to the goddess as “the beloved and companion of Sekhet.

Sekhet appears holding a lot of goods especially in the Nile god processions which were very common on the walls of the Greco-Roman temples. She formed a triad with Hapy and the king, as she was mentioned as the mother of the king who begot him and who suckled him. From this research I found how important is the goddess Sekhet through what she held from titles and epithets and her functions so I considered her to be the goddess of inundation which the Egyptian waited for every year to renew their life and bring fertility to the land.

Key words

Goddess, Field, Sekhet, Hapy, Plant, Offering, Dendera, Edfou
Introduction

$sht$ is a field goddess, known and attested from the Old Kingdom to the Greco-Roman period. She is a personification of the flooded and watered land, and is also the patron of fish spearing and bird catching.

She does not have a cult, but she is mentioned wherever there is fishing, fowling and hippopotamus hunting. It is said that the bird catcher god “$hb$” is her son, and she was considered to be the patron of the Nile god Hapi especially from the Middle Kingdom and later on.

Her name is written with the sign of field with different determinatives such as: The god Horus on the sacred holder ($i3t$) as , or as a seated woman , as a

---

1 The sign $sht$ shows reeds growing side by side with shoots between them and originally referred to a marshland or reed thickets where birds and fish were caught, in the Old Kingdom it was written by a similar sign $sm$ meaning “grass”. see; H.Altenmüller, Feld in $LÄ$ II, 148-149; Wb IV, 120,11-12
4 Säve-Söderbergh, On Egyptian representations of Hippopotamus hunting as a religious motive, 1953, s.38, Anm.5; Wilson, $op.cit$, p.912.
5 Ch.Leitz, $LÄGG$ V, 110; Pyr.555d; B.Behrmann, Das Nilpferd in der vorstellungswelt der Alten Ägypter, Bd II,1996,88; E VII,124.
7 Pyr.555d.
8 Wb IV, 231, 8-10; P.Newberry, El Bersheh, The Tomb of Tehuti-Hotep, $Archaeological Survey of Egypt Memoir 3$, part I, London 1895, pl.20/22; Urk.IV 1202, 1203, 1606; woman holding a bird in one hand \( \text{♀} \) and a lotus or water plant in the other hand, as \( \in \) an egg\(^9\), in the Greco-Roman Period its name is written with the cobra as a determinative \( \text{♀} \)\(^11\). Sometimes her name is written without a determinative\(^12\).

In her study of Sekhet Guglielmi\(^13\) said that Sekhet was not a goddess by the full means of the words, she remarked the absence of a cult and the rarity of offerings made to her. She used the definition of Morenz about her that she is a goddess of a special nature or an administrative and a place goddess\(^14\).

I present this study to prove that we have a very important deity and I will try to give some clues to her importance. Also to answer to the questions which came to my mind after the remarks of Guglielmi: Is Sekhet really not having a great importance? Is she just a personification of place? Does she had a family or not? so in this study I will focus on some aspects of the deity to strengthen the idea of her importance.

The Goddess Sekhet in Texts:

Sekhet’s name was first mentioned in Pyramid Texts, showing her relation to a bird catcher god whose name is \( \text{ḥb} \) to be her son, as we read:

\[
\text{Irt } \text{nb}(t) \text{ sḥt } n \text{sā.s } \text{ḥb}
\]

---

10. Wb IV, 231, 10.
12. L.Speleers, Recueil des Inscriptions égyptiennes des Musées royaux du cinquantenaire à Bruxelles, 1923, Nr.83,13
14. S.Morenz, Ägyptische religion, 29.a “Ressortgott”odder “Sondergott”
“All which the goddess Sekhet produces belongs to her son ḫb”\(^\text{15}\).

In Coffin Texts, She is mentioned as the one who helps the deceased to be a fowler of the gods who gives water\(^\text{16}\), and that she is the one who brings the birds and put them in the net of the deceased:

\[
Rdi\ n.i\ sḥt\ ...\ r\ tpw\ i3dw\t
\]

“Sekhet has put (something may be birds) for me at the tops of the nets”.

She is also mentioned after Hapy in another text, as she is:

\[
In\ sḥt\ inn.s\ 3pdw
\]

“By Sekhet who brings the birds”\(^\text{17}\)

Her name usually occurs accompanying the fishing, fowling and hunting scenes, Those activities which were performed by the deceased to secure his needs of food and also to show his excellent sportive skills in front of his people. Those scenes were very popular on the walls of the tombs from the Old kingdom throughout the pharaonic period. The texts which are registered with hunting scenes called these activities as the “\(k3t\ sḥt\) “ which means the “work of Sekhet”\(^\text{18}\)

In the following examples of some monuments and tombs, we read the name of Sekhet followed by her epithets, to show her functions and her relation to the deceased, as we read:

- The Tomb of ḡ矍w in Deir el Gebrawy\(^\text{19}\), the goddess is mentioned in the texts as:

---

\(^{15}\) Pyr.555 d; S.Mercer, The Pyramid texts in translation and commentary, 1952, p.115.

\(^{16}\) CT VII, 234 b and d.

\(^{17}\) CT VI, 171 K.

\(^{18}\) Säve-Söderbergh, Four eighteenth dynasty tombs, Private Tombs at Thebes I, Oxford 1957, pl.7, 14; Urk IV, 1422.

\(^{19}\) N.De G.Davies, The rock Tombs of Deir El Gebrawi, London 1902, Tf.5
“nfr. wi iww šḥt nbt ḫb ḫr m ir rmw r ḥḥw n kš n NN”

“How beautiful is the coming of Sekhet mistress of the catch, (carrying ) with fishes and birds for the soul of NN”

- On a Sarcophagus of ḫmnw

This sarcophagus is from wood, from Assiout, dated back to the Middle Kingdom, the deceased is mentioned as:

imḥy ḫr sḥt “The blessed before Sekhet”

- The Tomb of ẓnh-tifi

In his hunting scene the following text is in front of him:

nḥt tp nḥt sḥr sḥt tḥ ḫnwt ḫtp nfr n kš n ẓnh tifi ḥkr mšr ḫrw

“How harpoon the head for Sekhet the lady of the good offering for Ankhtifi the excellent the justified”

- The Tomb of ḫnm ḫtp

It is located in Beni Hassan he is called “The beloved of Sekhet”

- In Other tombs (TT 165):

ḥns ššḥ ḫḥb sšw šḥmḫ ib stt ḫḥy.t m ḫḥw in mṛy ḫḥ.t smḥy n nbt ḫb in NN

---

22. There is also “presenting the staff of Sekhet, Where the king has a true harpoon blade like Sekhet and the staff is shown with birds attached to it. See: W. Guglielmi, Zur Symbolik des Darbringens des Straußes der šḥ.t, ZÄS 103, Berlin 1976, s.100ff.
23. P. Newberry, Beni Hassan I, pl.34, p.70
24. This tomb dated back to king Thutmosis IV-Amenhotep III, only fragments of inscriptions survived but the name of the owner of the tomb does not survive fully intact in any of the inscriptions. The owner was a Scribe and counter of grain. Budge suggested to be Amenemhab in: W. Budge, Wall decorations of Egyptian tombs, London 1914, pp.10-2. But Manniche said he was probably Neb-Amun; see: L. Manniche, Lost tombs, A study of certain Eighteenth dynasty monuments in the Theban necropolis, London 1988, p.137.
“Traversing the swamp, going round the pool of birds, amusing by fishing with harpoon by the beloved and companion of the mistress of the catch by NN.”

- In the tomb of sn nḏm and ḫmn m ḫb:

Dated back to the New Kingdom, these two are called the beloved and companions of the lady of hunting” “mr(y) smȝy n nbt ḥbw”

- In the tomb of ṛḥ m� rcej

The deceased is called:

Mṛ(y) (n) sḥt smȝy n nbt ḥbw

“Rekhmire the beloved of Sekhet and companion of the mistress of the catch…”

And also the servants say that: “lo… Sekhet comes with a good will (hunting)”

- The tomb of Antef (No.155) New Kingdom

In a Hunting scene of a hippopotamus, we read the following text:

\[ wḏ3 \ in \ NN \ r \ stt \ ḫb \ swtwt \ r \ sḏ3 \ hr.f \ m \ k3.t \ sh.t \ r \ wdn \ n \ nb.t \ ḫb \ m \ ṣḥw \ mrrw \ ir.s \ mr(rt.f) \ rcej \ nb \]

“Going out by NN for hunting the hippopotamus by the harpoon enjoying the work of Sekhet for bringing the offerings to the lady...”

---

25 Urk IV, 917, 980, 1203, 1397, 1421, 1600, 1607; L. Manniche, op.cit, p.152 (b).
26 TT 127; Urk IV, 512, 16
27 TT 85; Urk IV, 917, 17.
29 Ibid., p.41, pl.XLI, 1; pl.XLI, 2 left
30 Ibid., p. 42.
of hunting in the marshes and canals, so she is doing what he loves daily”32.

- Tomb of Pedi斯特 in Baharia oasis 33

From the late period, 26th dynasty the text say:

\[ ind \ hr.k \ in \ s\text{h}t \ m \ rmw.s \ h\text{n} \].

“praise to you by Sekhet with her fish and…”

- The Tomb of Petosiris 34:

\[ wd \ n.k \ s\text{h}t \ nb(t) \ h\text{b}w \ rsf \ z\text{p}d\text{w} \ m \ s\text{h}t \ h\text{f}t \ i\text{b}d.t.k \]

“It is she who gives you the birds and fish assembled in the field before your net”

\[ wd \ (n).k \ s\text{h}t \ i\text{m}.s \ k\text{w}.k \ i\text{m}\text{h} \ wr \ snf \ r\text{nn}w.k \ ms.sn \ n.k \ b\text{hs}w \ d\text{d}\text{b}w \]

“Sekhet gives you that your blessed bulls are productive, your young cows give birth for you fat calves”

The Greco Roman period-The temple of Dendera 35:

In the Greco-Roman period, Sekhet had a lot of titles that show her functions and her importance, as we read in the following text:

\[ N\text{swt} \ b\text{ity} \ 5\text{nh}t \ nb.t \ 5\text{nhw}t \ h\text{kt} t \ h\text{nt} \ h\text{nb} \ s\text{h}t \ nb.t \ t\text{hnt} \ nb.t \ t\text{h}n \ i\text{fd}t \ m \ i\text{fd}w \ nw \ t\text{b} \ d\text{pyt}\?nb.t \ t\text{b} \ w\text{h}\text{t} t \ nb.t \ h\text{nkt} \ h\text{pt} \ nb.t \ h\text{tpw} \ d\text{f}\text{b}\text{w} \]

“Lady of upper and lower Egypt, The living uraeus, lady of the grains of life, Sovereign of canals and marshes, Sekhet lady of

---

32 Säve-Söderbergh, Hippoptamus Hunting, p.10.
This rite is connected to the myth of Horus when he kills Seth in the form of a Hippoptamus by a Harpoon.
33 PM VII, s.303; A. Fakhry, Bahria and Farafra Oases, in ASAE 40, Le Caire 1940, s.859; id., The Egyptian Deserts, Baharia Oasis I, Cairo 1942, p.113, fig.79.
The goddess is shown sitting on the floor with her right hand on her knee, unfortunately her head is missing
34 M.G. Lefebvre, Le Tombeau de Petosiris, Le Caire 2007, Inscr. 58, 11.14f
the country, the shining lady of the shining ones, The fourth of the four corners of the land, The gourmand ? Lady of bread, the provider and lady of beer, The satisfied and lady of offerings and feedings”.

From the previous examples throughout the pharaonic periods and later in the Greco-Roman period we understand the great importance of Sekhet as she held many titles refer to her functions, in conclusion:

- Her titles: The name of Sekhet is very important in the fowling and fishing activities of the deceased, she is called:
  - Nbt ḫb means “The lady of catching” and the ḫb word takes the determinatives of both birds and fish.
  - ḫnwšt ḥtp nfr means “lady of the good offerings”
  - Nbt mrw : means “lady of canals” and ḥkšt ḫnt ḫnb “lady of canals and marshes”.
  - ḥnḫt nbt she is the living uraeus
  - nbt ḫnywt lady of the grains of life
  - nbt sḫt “lady of country”.
  - ṯḥnt The Shining lady (bright)
  - ḫfdt she is one of the four corners of the world
  - dpyt The gourmand this title may refer to the strong side of the goddess.
  - nbt t ḫnkṯ The provider of bread and beer
  - ḥpt the satisfied and im3 the friendly

1- Her Functions: Besides her relation to the deceased as his beloved and companion she is the one who:
- Facilitates his catching by putting the birds in his net.
- Causes the bulls of the deceased to be productive and his young cows give birth of fat calves.
- Provides the deceased with his needs from bread and beer.

---

36 R.A.Caminos, Literary fragments in the Hieratic Script, Oxford 1956, s.7f.
37 Ibid., s.11
After we studied some of Sekhet’s titles and epithets we can say that we have a very generous goddess who brings every thing to the people and that make me see in this goddess the inundation which the ancient Egyptian waited for every year to renew their life, bring every good things to them and fertilize their lands. When we see the abundance of birds and fish in the fowling and fishing scenes we may relate that to the coming of the inundation (and of Sekhet).

Sekhet was called 3̀ḥt in the Greco-Roman Period

Representations of Sekhet:

Sekhet appears on the walls of the great temples and especially in the procession of the Nile gods. The gods bring different kinds of goods for the benefit of the king, who is by his turn gives them to the supreme gods of the temples. These processions are very popular in: Dendera, Edfou, Esna, Kom Ombo, Deir el Medina, Opet, Philae, Dakka and others.

Sekhet’s role is very prominent and the king is seen in many scenes to offer the sign of field to the gods in different temples (fig.1).

---

38 G.Roeder, Les Temples immerges de la Nubie, Der temple von Dakke, Le Caire 1930, pl.41, 44.
39 LD Text III, p.90; A.M.Blackman and H.W.Fairman, in JEA 29, p.34.
Sekhet appears on the walls of the great temples among other gods, She is depicted from D.18 in the Nile god processions as a symbol of fertility and regeneration.\textsuperscript{40}

Her appearance is similar with differences in the offerings, we see her as:

- A woman holding offerings alone, with or without the sign of field on her head.

- A woman holding offerings among other gods bringing offerings.

- A divine goddess among the supreme gods, receiving offerings from the king.

- A pair godess who is like Hapy bringing offerings to the temples.

- A pair goddess doing the unification of the two lands ($sm\overline{3} t\overline{3}wy$).

The first appearance of the goddess Sekhet dated back to the 5\textsuperscript{th} dynasty, as she appeared in front of the king Sahure -who is catching birds in his temple at Abusir. Unfortunately the scene is very much damaged, just fragments show the goddess standing with traces of her sign of field above her head in front of the king\textsuperscript{41}.

From the Middle kingdom we see the goddess giving offerings to the king as she was known as the “lady of the good offerings and feedings” \textsuperscript{42}, she is giving offerings of different kinds, as we see in the following:

---

\textsuperscript{40} Guglielmi, WdO Z. 1974, 206-22; LÄ V, 778; PTL, p.912.

- Making offerings without the field sign on her head: (fig.2)

The goddess is standing in front of king Mentuhotep II who is sitting inside his shrine, holding a flail in his right hand and greeting the goddess with the other. A falcon is hovering above his head giving him the sign of life. The name of Sekhet is written in front of her face, she is holding two birds in each hand presenting them to the king.

!Image of goddess making offerings

Fig. 2
L. Habachi, MDAIK 19, fig. 7

In the temple of Dendera (fig.3) we see the goddess holding two wheat spikes in her hands accompanied by two bulls. In front of her is the Nile god Hapy and the Ptolemaic king and queen making offerings to Hathor and Horus. Hathor’s son Ihy is pacifying the goddess by the sistrum to make her accept the offerings.

!Image of temple scene

Fig. 3
D IV, pl. CCXCIX
2-Making offerings with the sign of field on her head(fig.4):

The goddess Sekhet appears in this period (GR) in a unique appearance, she holds a great deal of offerings such as: birds, bird nests, bird eggs, plants (lotus, Papyrus, water plants), fish and accompanied by animals: a bull, a goat and a cow.

!Image of Sekhet

Fig.4

Daumas, Mam. Dendera, pl. LXXV

As for the birds Sekhet was called “the mother of birds”\(^{43}\) and “Mistress of birds who captures them” \(sht\) gives all birds in their pools\(^ {44}\), wild fowl are considered to be the children of Sekhet\(^ {45}\).

- and we read in a text the kinds of birds that she holds:

\[
sht\ nbt\ \dot{h}b\ \hnwt\ \dot{h}bsw\ \km3(t)\ rsf\ \ir(t)\ \dot{h}d\dot{w}\ \mwt\ nt\ \gnw\ ms(t)\ 3p\dot{d}w\ \hrK3(t)\ r\dot{3}w\ \hrp(t)\ t\dot{3}yw
\]

Sekhet, the lady of the chase, mistress of \(\dot{h}bs\)-birds who created fish and fowl, who made the \(\dot{h}d\dot{w}\)-birds, mother of the \(\gnw\)-

\(^{43}\) E IV, 199, 9-10.

\(^{44}\) E II, 164, 3.

\(^{45}\) E VII, 124, 13
birds, who gives birth to the birds (ducks), queen of the r3- geese who cares for the nestlings.46

The goddess sekhet is described as the one who gives every bird flying up from its nest to the king.

In October birds migrate to the south, so the swamps would be full of them and is appropriate for the goddess to catch them.47

As for the plants

In n.k sht w3dty hr w3dw rdw nb m Kb.s nd.s hr.k m pr im.s shtp.t

“Sekhet brings to you the green plants carrying the green stems and all the perfumed plants she refreshes and makes green your face with all that coming out from her to make you satisfy”

sthn.s hwt.k m rnpw.s

“She adorns your temple with her fresh plants”48

- As for the animals:

She is holding her offerings accompanied by a cow (fig.5)

Fig.5
E XI, Tf.XVIIIIm

46 E II,163,7
As for the birds see:
48 E I, 567, 8 und E IX, Tf.38m
She is holding two large Tilapia fish\(^{49}\), five geese, two ducks lying on four eggs (Fig.6)

!Image

Fig.6

Guglielmi, Die Feldgöttin..., Abb.2

Accompanied by a goat and a bull with a twisted horn\(^{50}\) (Fig.7)

I think these goat and bull are red in color, as the red is the color of evil and the color of the god Seth whom are to be sacrificed in the festivals which were held in Edfou during the marriage festival\(^{51}\).

---

\(^{49}\) Fish occur with the utmost rarity

\(^{50}\) The twisted horn was an operation made to the newborn bull that was devoted to be offered when he grows up:

Fig. 7

D VIII, pl.DCCCXIX

-Offering of the wind sign on a sarcophagus from 26 dynasty (fig. 8)\textsuperscript{52}:

Sekhet is not only seen with food offerings, but she also gives the deceased the fresh air to help him to breathe as we see her on a sarcophagus from Wien Showing her standing with her sign on her head and holding the sign of wind with the sign of life in her right hand while holding the sign of life in her left hand.

\textsuperscript{52} Ch. Leitz, Der Sarg des Panehemisis in Wien, Wiesbaden 2011, p.207-8 §10,8-10; E. von Bergmann, Der Sarkophag des Panehemisis , Jahrbuch der Kunsthistorischen Sammlungen des allerböchsten Kaiserhauses, Vol.I, 1883, s.23.
Fig. 8

Ch. Leitz, Sarg des Panehemisis, §10.8-10

\[dd \text{ mdw in } s\ddot{t} \text{ m}(n)yt \ nfr \ m\ddot{r} \ r \text{ srty.k } \text{ snbt.k } \text{ htp } \text{ hr.k } \text{ bs.k rhnt iw.k rwt nn } \text{ hm nmtt.k m dw3’t}\]

“Words said by Sekhet the beautiful north wind reaches your nose your body rest with you, you go to the inner (the tomb) and may come out not to die in the underworld”

- 3-Making offerings with a nest on her head (fig.9):

In the temple of Opet we find Sekhet as a kneeling woman on a high base, making offerings of birds with the sign of nest on her head\(^53\), she was Known as “the mother of birds”, and as I said before she is: \(\text{hrp(t) } \text{t3yw “who cares for the nestlings”}\)\(^54\)

\(^{53}\) DeWit, Opet I, pl., p.205.
\(^{54}\) E II,163,7

As for the birds see:
The accompanying text says that:

\[ in \ n.k \ sht \ mwt \ 3pdw \ hbt \ msy \ p3yw \ r3w \]

“Sekhet the mother of birds brings to you (as) the lady of hunting who gives birth to birds”

4-Making offerings with Hapy:

Sekhet appears in a very close relation to the Nile god Hapy on the walls of the Greco-Roman temples. She appears either:

- Behind him
- In front of him.
- Between a pair of Hapy (of the north and of the south).

They are represented in a procession of gods and they always take the first position, they come directly after the king.

Sekhet and Hapy make offering to the king who also makes offerings to the supreme god of the temple either alone or with the queen.
As we see in following examples:

A- Sekhet and Hapy in Offering processions:
- Behind Hapy(fig.10):

In the hall of offerings Sekhet and Hapy are making offerings, the king and queen are usually opposite to them making offerings as well as Sekhet and Hapy.

!Fig.10

Kom Ombo I,344

- In front of Hapy (fig.11)

!Fig.11

E IX,38m
Sekhet stands in front of Hapy, she always carries food, while Hapy carries jars.
- Between a pair of Hapy (fig.12): In Es-sebua Temple, Sekhet is represented between Hapy of the south ($m\text{\textupsilon}$) in front of her and Hapy of the north ($mh\text{\textupsilon}$) behind her.

---

Fig.12

B- J.Bains, Fecundity figures, fig.102

B- Sekhet and Hapy with the king:

1- Following the king:

In the temple of Dendera (fig.13)

The king is burning incense and directly behind him is Hapy and Sekhet then come the other goddesses with their offerings.

---

55 PM VII, s.63; C.M.Firth, The Archaeological Survey of Nubia, report 1910-11, pl.31, 32; J.Leibovitch, Gods of Agriculture and welfare in ancient Egypt, in JNES 12, Chicago 1953, s.108f.
2-Following the king and queen (fig.14)

In Edfou:

The king and the queen are making offerings to the god Horus with a human body and the head of a falcon, behind them are Hapy and Sekhet.

3-Preceding the king and queen (fig.15):

In Esna Sekhet is behind a pair of Hapy who follow two priests and behind them is the king who is burning incense, and the queen who is holding the two sistrums (symbols of the goddess Hathor). This scene seems to be a festival in Esna.

Fig.15
Esna III,pl.DCLXXXVI

From the previous scenes we noticed a close relation between Sekhet and Hapy and the king. Sekhet and Hapy are represented in precedence of other gods in the offerings procession. We deduce the importance of both Sekhet and Hapy to the king, the three are forming a triad. From Sekhet, Hapy and the king.

The father is the Nile god Hapy as the king was called the son of Hapy in the inundation Hymns.56

As for Sekhet she had a very close relation to the king she is considered to be his mother and his protectress as we read in the following texts:

56 Ch.Leitz, LAGG V, 44-47; and the king is his son see: D II, 18,1; III,120,5; XI, 33,10-11.
- The mother of the king:

The king was considered to be Sekhet’s son, he was raised and born from her\(^{57}\).

\[R\text{n}n \ n \ h³ \ w\h兵马\ h\text{mr} \ n \ sḥt\]

“He was raised and suckled repeatedly by Sekhet”\(^{58}\)

- The protectress of the king:

On a Hieratic fragment belong to the king Amenemhat II, during his hunting activity in Fayoum, the goddess is considered to be the protectress of him who causes his safety\(^{59}\).

- The Helper of the king:

The goddess Sekhet helps the king in his hunting activities and I see the king as a son of Sekhet that he is also the bird catcher god \(ḥb\).

She helps the king in the hunting of Hippoptamus rite as Horus who killed the god of evil Seth in the form of a Hippoptamus, and that is by using her harpoon.

She helps the king in bird hunting and in the following scene we read the text:

5-Receiving offerings among other gods from the king (fig.16):

In a ritual (\(\text{ḥ₃bt}\)) scene from Edfou, the king is standing in front of a group of deities making offerings to them from different kinds.

\(^{57}\) E II,163,7; E IV, 360,5; IV, 382, 11; VII, 82, 2

\(^{58}\) E VI, 256, 11; pl.CLIII

\(^{59}\) W.Guglielmi, op.cit.,p.214.
Here the Ptolemaic king is making offerings to the gods respectively: Horus, Hathor, Khnum, Sekhet, Nem?, nbt -ntrw, ḥd -ḥtp and Tait⁶⁰.

The text with sekhet says:

\textit{di.i n.k pðy nb m sš.sn}

“ I gives you all birds in their nest”

6-A Pair of the goddess Sekhet (fig.17):

In Esna:

---

⁶⁰ E II, 164, 3; IX, Tf.XLIIb
- On an Isiac tablet from the Roman period in Turin
(fig.18):

It is made of bronze and other materials, dated back to the 1st century A.D. We see a pair of Sekhet on the right side of the altar making the $sm3 \ t\w$ rite by the Lotus plant, while on the left the Nile god Hapy making the same rite with the papyrus plant.

On the head of the goddess we see her emblem of the land but here there are two reed plants between them a sign of corn, behind the goddess on the right there is a baboon standing on his back legs, raising his front arms in an adoration form. Behind the other goddess there is a frog over a plant. All this represent the field and the fertility.

Fig.18

http://penelope.uchicago.edu/oddnotes/bembo.html
more detail is the following picture (fig.19)

!Fig.19

Leospo, La Mensa....pl.7

Sekhet figures are immortalized for western tradition on this Mensa Isiaca $^{61}$

-Her relation with other goddesses:

Sekhet was identified with the great goddess such as: Hathor, Isis, Nebtuu-Menhit and Meret. Her relation to these goddesses was related to the nature of these goddesses as mother goddesses, have an agriculture side and responsible for the fertility of the land. So we find each one of them with her name followed by the name of Sekhet as we follow:

-Hathor:

Sekhet was a designation with Hathor in a ritual scene $^{62}$.

$^{61}$ Leospo, La Mensa Isiaca di Torino, 1978, pl.5, 7.
In the Greco Roman period sekhet had a festival on the 23rd of the third season Akhet (Athyr)(8th October)\(^63\) held at Edfu, the feast occurs during the Hathor-Horus festival\(^64\). Hathor here is an aspect adopted, who was also known as “lady of the grazing land” and “lady of Hunting”\(^65\).

- Isis:

As Isis was a mother goddess, the goddess of the cultivated land \(^66\). She was represented while watering corn and was connected to the famous star Sopdet who appears in the sky at the beginning of the inundation declaring the beginning of the new year\(^67\). Isis took the title \(sh\)\(^68\) and her name is followed by the name of Sekhet\(^69\).

- Menhit Nebtuu

Nebtuu, queen of the fields a local goddess venerated together with Khnum in Esna, the ancient Latopolis\(^70\)

- Meret\(^71\)

The goddess Meret is identified with Sekhet as she was related to the inundation and she share in festivals which were held for his coming\(^72\).

\(^{64}\) E V, 350, 6.

\(^{65}\) L.Christophe, op.cit., p.36.

\(^{66}\) M.Münster, Untersuchungen zur Göttin Isis vom Alten Reich bis zum Ende des neuen Reiches,in MÄS 11, 1968.

\(^{68}\) J.Bergman, Ich bin Isis, s.227,246.

\(^{69}\) Esna II, 223

\(^{70}\) Esna III, 249, 6(§26); Esna III, 218, 12

\(^{71}\) W.Guglielmi, Die Göttin Mr.t, Entstehung und Verherrnung einer personification, Probleme der Ägyptologie,1991,18ss.

\(^{72}\) J.Berlandini, Meret in LÄ IV,83; \(prr hr mks mn\) Mr t Mhw (the royal running during the festival of the inundation) DeWit, Les Inscriptions du temple d’Opet à Karnak 1-2, in BAe 11-12, Bruxelle 1958-1962, 195, tab.15, col.2.
Finally the goddess Sekhet is identified with the great goddesses of the main temples in which the celebration of the inundation and the New year was held in ancient Egypt, as: Hathor in Edfou and Dendera, Isis in Philae, Nebtuu in Esna. Sekhet is identified with every mother goddess in the great temples and that have a connection to the harvest festivals in which Sekhet is the lady of fields.

Conclusion:

At the beginning of this research I thought that I am dealing with a limited goddess who has little and repeated informations, but at the end of this study I found out a very important goddess who is responsible for the welfare of the ancient Egyptians, who is related to the great activities performed in ancient Egypt. she is the patron of fowling, fishing Hippoptamus hunting. she formed a triad with Hapy, and the king.

She is the goddess of inundation, we deduce that from the abundances of her offerings and the abundances of birds, fish plants which she offers.

She had a very important role to the king she is his mother, protectress and helper.

Summary:

The goddess Sekhet was the lady of fields and marshes, She was the lady of fowling and fishing in ancient Egypt. She held a lot of titles and epithets which show her importance to the deceased and to the king.

Her name is mentioned in most of the hunting scenes which were represent on the walls of the tombs throughout the pharaonic period. the owner of the tomb held titles to show his relation to the goddess as “the beloved and companion of Sekhet.

Sekhet appears holding a lot of goods especially in the Nile god processions which were very common on the walls of the Greco-
Roman temples. She formed a triad with Hapy and the king, as she was mentioned as the mother of the king who begot him and who suckled him. From this research I found how important is the goddess Sekhet through what she held from titles and epithets and her functions so I considered her to be the goddess of inundation which the Egyptian waited for every year to renew their life and bring fertility to the land.
المعبودة سخت في مصر القديمة

د. منى أبو المعاطى النادي

الملخص العربي:
المعبودة سخت هي ربة الحقول والأحراش، ربة صيد الطيور والأسماك وأفراس النهر. حملت العديد من الألقاب والصفات التي توضح أهميتها سواء للمتوفى أو الملك.

يذكر اسمها في أغلب مناظر صيد الطيور والأسماك وأفراس النهر التي كان يقوم بها صاحب المقبرة كنشاط أساسي له لإظهار مدى قوته، ولضمان وفرة غذاه.

حمل صاحب المقبرة ألقاباً تقربه من سخت كـ "المحبوب من سيدة الصيد" و "الرفيق لسيدة صيد الطيور والأسماء".

صورت سخت في إشكالات مختلفة جميعها تصورها كمعبودة معطاء، تحمل العديد من أصناف الطعام وتصور عادة ضمن مواكب آلهة النيل على جدران المعابد، يفاقها المعبود حعبى إله النيل الذي يعتبر زوجا لها.

تكون سخت مع حعبى والملك ثلاثينية خاصة، حيث ذكرت بأنها أمة للملك وذكر حعبى بأنه أب الملك.

ومن خلال البحث أتضح أهمية المعبودة من خلال ما حملته من ألقاب وصفات عديدة توضح دورها، ويمكن أن نربط بينها كألة خيرة وبين عطاء الفيضان الذي كان ينتظره المصريون القدماء كل عام ليلجبن لهم الخيرات كلها ويجدن لهم الأرض ويغمرها بالطيور والنباتات والأسماء.

الكلمات الدالة:
- سخت - حعبى - الحقول - الطيور - النباتات - رتبة - المعبودة - القرابين - المقابر - البطملى - بتوزيريس

Ammar monaelnadi@ymail.com

- استاذ مساعد كلية الآثار جامعة القاهرة